Light Hangar Company focuses on customers' needs

PLAINVILLE

STAFF REPORT

When it's time to replace that old light fixture you've been staring at forever or complete that home renovation, The Light Hangar Company in Plainville can handle all your lighting needs.

The Light Hangar Company was established in October 2018 by Laura Davis, who prides herself on the personalized service her small, local business provides.

"I've had a lot of success with customers by giving them personal attention and hands on assistance," Davis said. "Getting to know a customer's style helps you understand what they are looking for."

Many times customers don't really know how many options they have. Not only does The Light Hangar Company carry a wide selection of lighting in stock, but many of their product lines carry thousands of different lighting products that offer extensive options like color or sizing to fit the needs of your project.

"When you come into my shop, I'm going to ask what project you're working on as well as things like if you're looking for a lot of light or maybe something more decorative," Davis said. "It helps to build that connection."

Recently, The Light Hangar Company helped complete three new homes. They were very hands-on with the projects and provided the consultation and lighting throughout the entire construction in the Southington area.

Davis acquired the Connecticut certification for Woman-

Owned and Minority Small Business for her ownership of The Light Hangar Company. Last year, The Light Hangar Company won the Bristol Press Readers Poll Best of 2020 for the "Best Lighting Center."

The Light Hangar Company has also joined forces with Energize Connecticut's Commercial Lighting Program, providing LED lights to small businesses such as local restaurants to help tackle the ever increasing cost of electricity.

"There are so many rebates out there right now, especially instant rebates," explained Davis. "A business could potentially recoup the money spent in two to three years."

Last October, The Light Hangar Company teamed up with LISA, Inc. to donate over $3,000 worth of lighting to local group homes that help youths who are in the care of the Department of Children and Families.

The Light Hangar Company will be opening on Saturdays once again. To set up a personalized design consultation, call 860-992-7522 or visit thelighthangarco.com. Their showroom is located at 1 Town Line Road, Suite 7, in Plainville.
